

ANNA LUCIA DELOI

Anna has studied the harp with Stephanie Curcio, with Franziska Huhn at the New England Conservatory Preparatory School and with Elizabeth Morse at Williams College. She has served as principal harpist of the NEC Youth Philharmonic Orchestra, Boston Youth Symphony, New Hampshire Philharmonic, Boston Philharmonic Youth Orchestra, Portsmouth Symphony, and Berkshire Symphony Orchestra.

As a soloist, Anna has been featured by ensembles including the Merrimack Valley Orchestra, Lowell Philharmonic, New Hampshire Philharmonic, Berkshire Symphony, Portsmouth Symphony, Boston Philharmonic Youth Orchestra, and Symphony Pro Musica. She appeared twice on National Public Radio's From the Top and was featured in a documentary about young classical musicians produced by RDF Television in London.

In 2014 Anna was named a National YoungArts Winner and U.S. Presidential Scholar in the Arts. In 2016, she toured Scandinavia and the Baltic as a member of the Youth Orchestra of the Americas. She has performed in venues including Symphony Hall in Boston, the Kennedy Center in D.C., the Musikverein in Vienna, and the Concertgebouw in Amsterdam. She holds a bachelor's degree in music and psychology from Williams College, where she graduated as valedictorian and was awarded the Shirley Stanton Prize for her performance and engagement in music.

Anna also has extensive experience as a music educator working with elementary school students in afterschool settings – especially El Sistema-inspired programs – in both urban and rural contexts. She is deeply involved in organizing and advocating for community-based music and arts programming.